What does it do?

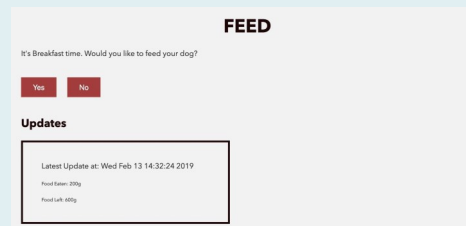

The Feed-a-Bowl sends notifications to the app reminding the owner that it is feed time. The user then responds telling the device whether it should feed the pet or not incase the pet has been fed by other means.

The weight of the bowl is measured to track how much the pet eats and how much food is dispensed, feeding this information back to the user. At each meal time if the user has requested feeding, the bowl will be filled to the requested limit. The Feed-a-Bowl has the added functionality of notifying you when your pet is in the bowl area.

Who is it suitable for?

The Feed-a-Bowl can be adapted for any size of pet, with the user being asked how much food should be given to the pet at each meal time. Ask us for availability as larger pets will require larger bowls.

At the time being Feed-a-Bowl is only available for dispensing of dry food.
